FOR REVENUE REFORM.

A Rousing Meeting in Philadelphia-An Ovation to Breckinridge.

PHILADELPHIA. January 27 .- The tariff meeting, which was held at the academy of usic this evening, "to enforce and indorse the recommendations of President Arthur and President Cleveland for revenue reform," was one of the most successful demonstrations of the character ever held in this city. The academy was filled to the top gallery, and most of those present were business men.

The meeting was called to order by William M. Simesriv, proprietor of the Philidelphia.

two hundred well known Philadelphia citizens of both parties, among them ex-Governor Henry M. Hoyt and his successor, ex-Governor Robert Pattison, chairman of the Pacific railroad commission; George W. Biddle, Walter Wood, William Bruce, Henry Flanders, and C. McMurtie. The audience was attentive and enthusiastic throughout, but the feature of the evening was the subgridle outing riven. of the evening was the splendid ovation given to Congressman Breckenridge, of Kentucky.

of the evening was the splendid ovation given to Congressman Breckenridge, of Kentucky.

Mr. Breckinridge had left the stage before the first burst of applause, which followed his peroration, but was compelled to return by the cheering audience, which fairly shouted itself hoarse until he stepped again to the foolights. With a voice full of emotion, Mr. Breckinridge thanked the audience for so unexpected a greeting to one who was almost a stranger to a Philadolphia audience.

It was but a few minutes past eight o'clock when Mr. Welsh assumed the duties of chairman. He said that the significance of this demonstration consisted not only in an assertion of the necessity for tariff revision and reform, but also in the right and necessity for a fair, mauly and intelligent discussion of the questions appertaining to it. The American people are entitled to judge and know, as a result of this discussion, whether those who believe in the magnificent and unequaled who believe in the magnificent and unequaled resources of their country, and in the ability of their countrymen to develop and utilize those resources, are less wise and patriotic than those who contend that we are unable to compete with the inferior resources and inferior nethods that exist throughout Europe in almost every particular.

most every particular.

Letters of regret were read from S. S. Cox and Secretary Fairchild. Mr. Cox writes:

I do not know, if I were present, that I could add anything to the discussion of industrial business or the constitutional questions involved in "revenue reform." But, my wishes go with all just, moderate and economic efforts to relieve labor and to liberal-two curfices and twing exchange.

ize our fiscal and taxing systems.

Speaker Carlisle, writes:
An early and substantial reduction of taxation is what our country now most needs, and I hope your mosting will materially assist in bringing about that leads.

what our country now most needs, and I nope your moeting will materially assist in bringing about that result.

Secretary Fairchild writes:

The call for the meeting tonight described a true protective tarift, based upon due consideration of all interests of the people. It described what the starff will be if the people. It described what the starff will be if the people study the subject, and act upon their convictions after such study. I regret that I cannot attend, but, if I were there, I could only emphasize what my lamonted predecessor said so well, and after mature deliberation; and he but foliowed the precepts of the two secretaries who held office before him. Our people, to prosper, must be tree. Let them reason together how best to secure and maintain their free-tom.

The first speaker introduced was Congressman W. C. P. Breckinridge, who instantly impressed his audience, and was frequently unable to proceed because of applause. Mr. Breckinridge said that the question of taxation was the most important one with which the government had to deal, and that that question was now before the American people in an imperative manner and congress had but recently refused the question consideration, but since then the great, brave president had declared that the tariff is today the one question most worthy the attention of congress and of the attention of the country, it fostered corruption, and was a perpetual menace to honest government. But great as these are, they are the least of the evils which confront us now, for the accumulating surplus threatens a business panic and is educating the people to false ideas of their evils which confront us now, for the accumulating surplus threatens a business panic and is educating the people to falso ideas of their relations to the government. This is not a paternal government. This is not a paternal government. This government is but the trustee of the people, with powers limited by a deed of trust which we call a constitution. The money in the treasury is not the money of the government; it is the money of the people, wrung from them by a false and wrong policy of taxation. Twenty-seven years ago our flag was in every port; now it is in scarcely any. The trade of Canada, of South America, of Mexico, has been taken by other nations and lost to us by this false system which makes the rich richer, but makes the poor poorer. We can't carry cargoes to other ports makes the rich richer, but makes the poor poorer. We can't carry cargoes to other ports because we can't bring back to our protection-cursed country a cargo from foreign ports in return. To obtain some idea of what we can do, look at the leather trade of the country, and how is has thriven since we have hides to come in free. Before that we exported leather by the hundreds of thousands of dollars worth by the hundreds of thousands of dollars worth per year. Now we export it by the millions of dollars worth a year."

"We are getting along, though," said the speaker, "and I regard it as a great element of progress that Frank Hurd and I are here in Philadelphia talking tariff reform before such an audience of Philadelphia business men and manufacturers as this."

Referring to President Cleveland's message.

Philadelphia talking tariff reform before such an audience of Philadelphia business men and manufacturers as this."

Referring to President Cleveland's message, the speaker said that he was proud to live in the day when a man could be elected chief magistrate of the nation, brave enough and honest, and mindful enough of his obligations to the people; who could, with the presidency in his gift, lay it aside for his duty. He was glad that the challenge had come from Paris to this bold, brave deed of the president, and he was glad to be able to assert with confidence that now that this issue had been made, it would be fought out on one side at least with a leader of courage and noble heart.

When Mr. Breekinridge closed, the vast audience arose almost en masse and applanded for several minutes, under cover of which that gentleman bowed himself off the stage; but the audience would not be satisfied until he was again brought in by Mr. Singerly, and made a brief address.

After this little scene, Secretary Henger read the following set of resolutions, which were adopted by the meeting:

Tax reduction is a necessity. There can be no successful defense of a fiscal policy which takes more money out of the pockets of the tax payers than is necessary for the co-nomical edministration of the government. The remedy for excessive revenue is revised taxation. President Arthur recommended to this sid abolition of the tobacco tax, an enlargement of the free list, and the simplification and reduction of the dutes on cotton, fron, sted, sugar, wool and woolens. President Cleve land recommends free raw materials of manufacturies and such other tariff duties is demanded not by mere indiscriminate popular clamor, but by the lest conservative opinion of the country including that which has in former times been most strenons for the preservation of our national industrial defenses and that such reduction should be not only a due recognition of public sentiment and a measure of justice to consumers, but one conductive to the general i Aronses the Mississippi Senators Into Eloquent Flights—A Night Session in Progress.

JACKSON, Miss., January 27.- [Special.]-The senate spent the entire day discussing the veto of the constitutional convention bill, and will have a night session, and perhaps reach a vote. Senator Martin, of Adams, made the opening speech on the governor's side, and as was expected, fired the heaviest gun on his side of the question, covering all the ground M. Singerly, proprietor of the Philadelphia Record, who has been chiefly instrumental in arranging the affair. Mr. Singerly introduced Wilson Welch, of the commercial exchange, as president of the meeting. Ex-Secretary of State William S. Stenger was elected secretary, and two hundred and fifty business men, who signed the call for the meeting, were constituted vice presidents.

There was a sprinkling of ladies through the audience, and one of the boxes was filled with a large party of ladies and gentlemen. Upon the large stage of the academy there were over two hundred well known Philadelphia citizens of both parties, among them ex-Governor.

STUCK IN THE SNOW.

Railroad Trains Stopped By the Deep Snow In the North. NEW YORK, January 27.-At Biddeford Maine, the snow blockade is unequalled since 1866. From four o'clock vesterday morning till nine last night no train passed through here. At nine last night seven passenger trains and one freight were blockaded within a mile of this city. On the western division, where the snow is drifted worst, but little headway is being made and the wrecking train did not finish its work at Old Orehard until nine o'clock last night, having spent seven ers in getting the engine and snow plow back on the track. Only one train has arrived from New York in thirty hours and there is a small chance of another getting through before tonight. The snow has drifted badly in all directions, and trains are either abandoned or running 'wild." Three Delaware and Lackawanna west-bound through trains were snowed up at Pocono mountain, Pennsylvania, all night, but managed to move at seven o'clock this morning. Trains from the west on this road are also moving very slowly. No trains have arrived from Albany on the Delaware and Hudson road since noon yesterday, and the blockade is

Effects of the storm were felt this morning at Troy with even greater severity than yesterday. The Boston train out of there at ten o'clock last night ran into the rear end of a freight train a mile west of Williamstown, Mass. at 12:20 c'clock this morning, and Conductor P. Cadmore, of the freight, was killed. He was in the carboose with three of his brakemen whio were all soriously injured. Brakemen George Wheelock was also killed.

The through night train from Montreal on the Central Vermout is fast in a snowdrift near Hurlington.

At Plymouth, N. H., the weather is the worst known for years. Eighteen inches of snow fell during the past twenty-four hours and the thermometer is six degrees below zero, with the wind blowing a hurricane. Seven trains are blockaded between Warren, Summit and Ashland, and some are without fuel and water, and it is impossible to communicate with any of them. No mails received here shoe Wednesday night.

At Easton, Pennsylvania, the snow drifted all night and caused a blockade of trains on the New Jersey Central railroad six miles long west of Hampton. Trains are now moving. Snow drifts are numerous on all roads centering here and trains are from one to two hours late. All trains on the Bangor and Portland and Lehigh and Lackawanna railroads have been alzendoned, owing to many deep drifts.

Men went to work this morning to dig it out. The snow was blowing about so thick that nothing could be seen a few feet distant and at 7:30 a train from Greenfield dashed into the gang, killing three men and injuring another fatally.

Five long passenger trains on the Boston and Albany road are snow-bound at Pittsfield, Mass., awaiting news of the opening of the road before proceeding further. The fast St. Louis express spent last night in a snow drift near Washington cut. There were over 100, passengers on board, but notwithstanding the fact that the thermometer marked ten below, they did not suffer from cold. The fast mail

The fast mail which left Boston last evening for the west, spent the night in a drift one mile from Hinsdale. The passengers suffered from the cold greatly, and many ladies were prostrated. A number of children were badly frost-bitten.

They could obtain but little to eat, but a country drug store supplied the passengers with brandy. Three engines with a snow plow are stuck in a drift near Richmond furnace. Freight trains covering over a mile of track are snowed in near Shamers, and much perare snowed in near Shamers, and much per-ishable goods will be lost. In many places the

The Chicago limited express over the New York Central, due in New York at 7:30 o'clock last night, did not arrive until eight o'clock this morning, twelve and a half hours late. At eleven o'clock, the Michigan Central train, due at the Grand Central depot at 9:30 o'clock last night, had not arrived, but was expected before noon. The train was held in an enormous drift between Albany and Schenectady. The blockade at Hudson has been raised and all north bound trains are now running tady. The blockade at Hudson has been raised and all north bound trains are now running through, though on slow time. morning, but at eleven o'clock was still snow bound there.

In Berkshire, Schuylkill and Lehigh counties, Pennsylvania, the public roads have been almost entirely abandened because of immense snow drifts, and teams pass over open fields regardless of fences which, in many places, are not visible. The farmers are turning out in bands of fifty and a hundred to open the country roads. All railroads in that section are much impeded. No attempt is being made to open the short lines to the coal breakers. It takes all the force the railroads can muster to dig out passenger trains from snow drifts, where they are constantly sticking. On the Frederick division of the Pennsylvania railroad travel has almost entirely ceased, and many workmen are engaged at Littletown in digging a passenger train out of a snow drift. Between Lancaster and Columbia, freight trains are snow bound and the fires were drawn from the locomotives. The Reading and Columbia road is completely blocked.

Travel on railroads centering in Harrisonburg, Pa., has been greatly impeded by great snow banks that obstruct the tracks. Cumberland Valley railroad has annulled all freight trains, and is directing its attention to the running of passenger trains. Two or three locomotives are attached to each train and even with this additional power the trains are all late. Banks of snow six or seven feet in depth block the track in many places.

A train which left Boston yesterday morning arrived this afternoon at Rutland. Vt., 27 hours later. It went no further, but started back at 6 o'clock with two engines and two passenger coaches. It got as far as East Clarendon, when the entire train, with the exception of one engine, left the rails. No one was injured. There are eleven locomocives at Shelburn tonight trying to move a train from Montreal due lere at 10:35 last night. This is the worst blockade ever known here. The surrounding country is badly choked up and roads are impassable. Snow is falling, the weather is bitter cold, and it promises to be the most seve

The body of Frank Dearmond, who was brutally murdered at Hunter binff, on the Tennessee river, thirty miles above this city on Monday night, was found a mile and a haif below where the murder was committed, this morning, by dragging the river. He had been killed with a shotzun, the charge taking effect in his head and tearing all the back part of the skull away. Two big stones were tied to the body with a rope to weigh it down. The finding of the body has created more excitement than ever in the neighborhood where Mr. Dearmond lives, and young Hunter, who was arrested as the murderer, has been taken to some unknown place to keep him from to some unknown place to keep him from being lynched.

THE CEREMONY REPEATED. A Romantic Affair Reported From North

RALEIGH, N. C., January 27.-[Special.] A romantic marriage was performed at the little town of Newton, which attracts much at-

Seventeen years ago, Mrs. Elizabeth Ferguson was living in Rowan county with her first husband, John B. Ferguson. One day he, on some pretext or other, went to Georgia. The wife patiently awaited his return for two years, and finally heard he was dead. After many years of supposed widow-hood, she went to live as housekeeper in the family of Mr. A. Hale, a wealthy retired jeweler of Charlotte, who had moved on a farm he owned in her. neighborhood, on account of the delicate health of his wife.

Mrs. Hale died, and eighteen months ago Mr. Hale married Mrs Ferguson. They lived happily until a month or two ago, when it was discovered that Ferguson, after going to Geor-gia, had married another woman and was still-alive. Steps were at once taken by Mrs. Ferguson, now Mrs. Hale, to obtain a divorce, and proceedings were begun in Catawba county superior court by publishing notice to Fergu-son. The case came up yesterday, and hearing the facts, the court at once granted to Mrs.

Ferguson an absolute divorce.

Last night, at the Haynes house, in the presence of Judge Boykin, ex-Congressman Armfield and many prominent lawyers, Mr. Hale. and his wife were united firmly. They were serenaded by the band, and a large crowd was attracted to the house. All felt in sympathy with the bride and groom over the happy termination of their trouble.

A Ringing Interview With Hon. George N. Lester.

EXCISE LAWS AND BANKING SYSTEM

Colonel Lester Said to be in the Roll for Con gress From the 9th-His Views on Two Important Questions.

CUMMING, Ga., January 27 .- [Special Your correspondent saw Hon. George N. Les-ter in reference to the agitation of the repeal of the internal revenue laws, which question is now creating the deepest interest in north Georgia. What he has to say on the subject is made more interesting from the fact that it is rumored that Colonel Lester will be a candidate for congress from this, the ninth district.

Your correspondent asked him-"What are your views on the internal reveme laws; ought they be repealed or contin-

'In answer to your first question," said he, "I have favored for years, and still favor, the nediate, absolute and unconditional repeal of the entire body of statutes known as the internal revenue laws. They were passed to meet an emergency that has long since gone by. I deem them essentially wrong in principle. The methods of executing them are necessarily oppressive, un-American, undemocratic and almost universally odious to the cratic, and almost universally odious to the people, and oftentimes odious and disgusting the officers who are charged with their execution. They are wholly unnecessary, and the income from them goes to swell a continually increasing surplus of money in the public treasury, and to that extent is sheer robbery of the people. When these laws shall be repealed the states can handle the subject in such manner as they may deem just and proper, and if they choo to assess a similar tax on whisky, tobacco or alcohol they can collect the tax without oppression, without shotguns or carbines, and without the aid of hired spies and paid informers, and the money when collected will go into the treasuries of the states, where it will not lie an idle surplus."

'Are you in favor of a change in our banking system, and do you consider it right to continue longer a system that prohibits national banks from lending money on land and deny-ing them the right to loan only for ninety

In answer to your second question I have to say: I am utterly opposed to any system of banking, national or state, that hinders or prohib st a bank from lending money on the faith of land as security, or from lending for such time as can be agreed on between the parties, whether for ninety days, one hundred d sixty days, or any other length of time,

And I am in favor of removing any and all as the same can be done. Land is the best possible security for money, and any law which hinders or prohibits its being made such security is utterly wrong in principle and unjust the people.

Continuing Colonel Lester said: "One other thing I desire to say: That I favor the repeal the law imposing a tax of ten per cent the issues or circulation of state banks. Wh meh a tax, except for the purpose of prohibiting state banks or hampering their circulation? Whilst I am utterly opposed to all wild cat schemes of finance and believe in a sound currency I want Geor gia and every other state to have an open field and a fair fight on the money question, and I desire that our good old state shall have the right to organize and establish banks on a sure and sound basis, so as to furnish our people with more money and better facilities to get it than we now have. I want the people to be relieved of the clutches of the national banks, who can expand on contract the currency a "Georgia has had banks-and can have them again-that furnished money of undoubted soundness, money that was just as good in Georgia as that of any national bank in the United States. Why not give her the right untramnelled to do it again? When did Geor-gia ever see any better money than that once issued by the Georgia Railroad and Banking company, or the Central Railroad and Banking company, and others which I need not name.

"Finally, I am in favor of a revision of the tariff so as to raise only money enough to sup-port the government, economically adminis-tered, and I favor such an adjustment of the duties on imports as shall not abruptly derange the business of the country, or cripple our manufactories, or deprive labor of its just re-

A Novel Industry.

Albany, Ga., January 27.—[Special.]—Experiments are to be made here this season in the cultivation of the pyrethrum roseums a species of feverfew from which the insect powder now so much used is manufactured. When first introduced it was known as Daimation insect powder, probably from that far off corner of the world where it was grown. It is now cultivated largely in California but the supply seems hardly equal to the demand as the price is rapidly advancing upon it. With our mad climate in which the product of nearly every zone can be successfully cultivated the growth of this useful plant will doubtless prove successful and add another to our varied resources.

The amount of trade already that goes to Atlanta could be greatly increased if the cotton men would confer with the merchants and arrange to handle their cotton, etc. Jefferson, Pendergrass, Hochton and Jug Tavern would swell Atlanta's cotton receipts largely. We must have a market and at present fatlanta has the drop on the trade and why not control the cotton?

From the Buena Vista, Ga., Patriot.

A right funny thing happened in a justice court in Webster county last Saturday. Mr. Blank, who was endeavoring to sell out for the purpose of going to Texas, owed a party in this county and the latter sent a representative down to have his effects attached to make the money. Among his goods and chattels was a small herd of cattle, to which Mr. Blank's wife put in a claim. In setting up the claim plea the sharer of his joys and sorrows states that before she and Mr. Blank were married he was not able to present her with an engagement ring, and in lieu thereof presented her with a yearling heifer. This engagement offering grew and multiplied and the result is the herd of cattle, which was the bone of contention. If the lady's statement be true—and we have no reason to doubt it—she is certainly entitled to the cattle.

Overlooking the Winding Oconee River. THE REMAINS OF DR. MELL LIE BURIED

Affecting Funeral Services in the College Chapel-The Last Procession-Athens Still in Mourning.

ATHENS, Ga., January 27 .- [Special]-The last sad tribute to our honored and much be-loved chancellor, P. H. Mell, was paid this afternoon, by nearly every citizen of Athens, and many admiring friends from a distance. Early in the afternoon, even before the do were open, people were seen going to the university chapel, that they might get a seat, and participate in the funeral services of their beloved friend. The societies assembled in their halls at half past two o'clock, and accompanied by the faculty, they repaired to the re idence of their late chancellor and escorted the remains to the chapel. The two societies took their stand at the chapel door, on either Dr. Mell were carried between them, under the old Toombs oak, into the chapel, the path which the chancellor had so often trod with which the chancellor had so often trod with the orators of the day on anniversary and commencement occasions. As the body was borne into the chapel, the societies filed in and took their scats, and were followed by the family and friends of the deceased.

Lipscomb arose, and read part of the fifteenth chapter of arose, and read part of the fifteenth chapter of first Corinthians, after which Rev. Mr. Davis, of the First Episcopal church, gave out the beautiful and appropriate hymn, "It is Well With Thy Soul." A most beautiful prayer was offered by Dr. C. W. Lane, of the Presbyterian church, after which Rev. Mr. Campbell arose and repeated as his text: "His Lord said unto him, 'well done, thou good and faithful servant, thou hast been faithful over a few things, but I will make thee ruler over many things; enter thou into the joy of thy Lord." ful servant, thou hast been faithful over a few things, but I will make thee ruler over many things; enter thou into the joy of thy Lord." In the course of his discourse, Mr. Campbell touched upon the many responsibilities in Dr. Mell's life as chancellor, in having under his charge the young men of the land, and how well he guarded their interest, while in his hands. He brought up many instances to show that Dr. Mell was a great man and a good man. He spoke of how freely he gave to the church and all benevolent purposes, and, though his salary was not so large as some others, yet how willingly he helped poor young men by taking them into his own home. educating them and caring for them as if they were his own children. He said that Dr. Mell was universally beloved, and spoke of the many sad hearts who moan today because our loved is not. He spoke of how diligently and earnestly he worked during the summer months, when he should have been taking his rest, in order that he might correct many false reports which, if not replied to, would injure the university over which he presided. When Dr. Mell was told by his physician he could not get well, he bade each member of his family "God bless you." Mr. Campbell spoke very feelingly of the death-bed scene, and after completing his discourse with a beautiful tribute to his friend, there was hardly a dry eye in the chapel.

discourse with a beautiful tribute to his friend, there was hardly a dry eye in the chapel.

As the remains were carried out the choir sang most beautifully the favorite hymn "Sleep in Jesus," and the body of the lifeless chancel-tor was borne from the chapel. The line was soon formed, and the university boys, with bowed heads following their draped banners, wended their way with the procession to Oconee cemetery, where on the hill overlooking the Oconee river, the beloved and lamented chancellor sleeps. The procession was, perhaps, the largest ever seen in this city, and the streets and thoroughfares were lined with people.

The pallbearers were Professors White, Rutherford, Strahan, Willcox, Charbonier and Barrow Woodfin. As the cortege moved from the campus to the cemetery every bell in Athens toiled the sad knell. At a meeting of the S. A. E. fraternity last night, the following resolutions were read and

THE FARMERS' ALLIANCE Puts the Screws on the Merchants of La-Grange, and They Squeal.

LaGrange, and They Squeal.

LaGrange, Ga., January 27.—[Special.]—
The Farmers' Alliance recently held a meeting here and arranged for their trade to be concentrated with one firm, Dunson & Evans, this year. From remarks made by other merchants it seems that this this year. From remarks made by other merechants it seems that this concentration cuts off all competition and ties the hands of the farmers of that he is no longer able to trade where he seemingly could get the best bargains, but he must trade with the alliance house. Consequently promiscuous trade is cut off, and our merchants complain of a very dull trade; so much so that one of the best business houses here which had recently brought to this market a large line of supplies, are now selling out at which had recently brought to this market a large line of supplies, are now selling out at cost, and are going out of business entirely, and are going to another state. Owing to this pressure, Messrs. Clarke & Bros., who have been one of the most successful firms in La-Granze, will in a few days move to Cairo, Ill., and engage in the wholesale grocery business. Indeed, it does not seem just that the merchant who has stood by the farmers through all their trials, and with as little renumeration as any one, should at this crisis be boycotted and embarrassed as some are.

They are not only concentrating their gro-

They are not only concentrating their grocery and dry goods trade, but are making an effort to concentrate their drug trade, and are even planning for the coming political contests through alliance organizations. The same is true in other sections also.

No county in the state furnishes finer possibilities to farmers than does Terrell. Its surface is even, its soil moderately firm, naturaly productive, and thoroughly capable of a very high state of cultivation. Every year is bringing these facts more and more into prominence, and the time is not far distant when Terrell county will claim for itself more thrifty, prosperous, and well to do farmers than any county in southwest Georgia, and Dawson will be the trading center of a prosperous people. White, however, these are speculations capable of an early and happy realization, there is a lesson that still needs at the hands of our farmers as well as those of other sections much harder study, ere the field will "blossom like the rose," and prosperity will dawn upon every household. That lesson is the old one, so often hinted at; viz, broaden the corn crib, lengthen the granary, enlarge the smoke-house, lessen the average of cotton, and that sight so familiar at this season of each year, of wagons laden with meat and corn of western production will become of rare occurrence, the "irontion with meat and corn of western produc-tion will become of rare occurrence, the "iron-clad note" will be a thing of the pas, confi-dence will reign supreme, and man will look with pleasure and not suspicions upon his fellow.

THE BOY IS DEAD. Bennie Blitch is Dead-The Cause of His Death.

SAVANNAH, Ga., January 27 .- [Special.]-Bennie Blitch, the white boy who was stabled in the southwestern part of the city last Tues day afternoon, died early this morning. iam Johnson, the colored boy who did the stabbing, admitted it to Mayor Lester when the case was heard, and the mayor turned him over to the superior court for assault with intent to murder

About 3:45 o'clock Tuesday afterno two boys got in a fight in a store kept by Ma-rion Edwards, on Berrien street. Both boys were about twelve years old, and nearly of the same size. The negro boy got the white down and stabbed him five times in the back with a pen knife. The proprietor of the store pulled Johnson off and held him until Policeman Floyd arrived and took the boy to the barracks. Little Blitch was sent thought that the lad would recover. The shock however, and the wounds resulted in death The Johnson boy is in the jail.

A BLAZING TRAIN

Pursuing Its Lonely Way Along the Railroad Track.

SAVANNAH, Ga., January 27 .- [Special.]-The tourist train, with sixty-two on board, passed through here tonight at 9 o'clock, about six hours late. Two mishaps detained the train, which was a special. At the engine jumped the track. At Ashley junction they were again detained. A railroad casualty occurred which the tourists were alarmed by, but did not perfectly comprehend. While on a siding, a blazing engine driving three freight cars dashed by. The engine was deserted by all hands. It seems that the engineer and fireman, foreseeing a collision eaped from it, having closed the throttle par-

Rhea's company, on the regular train, only arrived at 8 o'clock tonight, and proceeded at once to the theater. The manager says their engine was ordered to go back a piece and pick up the tourists, but he finally secured a reversal of the order by Mr. Craig, who came up to where their train was waiting. The conluctor of the Savannah bound regular train received a dispatch ordering the engine to go back to Revenel and return regardless of No 39. The engineer refused to obey, as he said the telegram was not plain as to whether he should both go and return regardless of No. 39. The dispatch resulted in Rhea getting to Savannah in time.

DANCING IN CHURCH. North Carolina Tries to Down Georgia, but Cannot.

The Charlotte, N. C., Chronicle, which reached this office yesterday, told the following story:

CHURCH TURNED INTO A BALLKOOM.

Some of the colored people near Mt. Holly gave a festival in their church last Thursday, and the brass band was there, of course. During the progress of the entertainment some of those present, stimulated by the stirring strains of the band, began to grow a little restless and nervous about their feet, and it was but a short time when the whole crowd was industrying in a regular old break-down. The church was turned into a ballroom, and the fun went on fast and furious. Is there another such case on record in this section of the country? Yes, There Is!

The exchange fiend again shoved his hand into the exchange basket, and drawing out the LaGrange, Ga., Graphic, his eye at once fell THEY DANCED ALL NIGHT We learn that the young people in the neighborhood of Troup factory, taking advantage of the presence of a strolling band of musicians, got up an impromptu dance on Friday night. They removed the benches from a courch and used the floor of that building for their reveiry. Toe dance was kept up with spirit until the "wee sma' hours" of the moruling.

The young people may have thought it all right to and the members may have serious objections

Macon, Ga., January 27 .- [Special.]-Th's norning the body of J. F. Mosley, a flagman on the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad, was found in a small creek near Holton, which is ten miles north of here. Mosley left here this morning at 7 o'clock on a freight train going north, and it is suppose that he was standing on a box car and was knocked off by the bridge. An inquest was held at Holton this morning, with Justice of the Peace Tucker as coroner, but as they had no witnesses, it was deemed best to send the body to Macon, so Wood & Bond were telegraphed to furnish a coffin and have it ready at the depot to meet the 2 o'clock train. A jury was summoned by Coroner Hodnett and an in-quest was held in the cab car, but a verdict was not reached on account of no witnesses being present. The body was then put in the coffin and prepared to be sent to his home in Atlanta on the 6:30 train this evening.

The same coroner's jury, with the conductor, brakeman and several other men as witnesses, will meet in Justice Poe's office tomorrov afternoon at four o'clock and pass a verdict on the deceased. Judged of Lunacy.

Ordinary.

Ordinary McManus had an order issued in accordance with this to Sheriff Westcott, to summons a jury, one of whom should be a physician, that the question of Mr. Hines's in-sanity should be tried. The jurymen were as follows:

F. Walker, M. D., H. C. Mix, W. M. Rogers, G. M. Davis, W. W. Solomon, J. P. Lodue, W. D. Dense, G. W. Findlay, C. W. Mosely, H. Reynolds, C. C. Simms, Jr., George I. Smith. Messrs. Thomas Henley, John C. Butler and Dr. F. Walker gave testimony of the unsound-ness of Mr. Hines's mind: then the jury ren-dered the following verdict:

We, the jury find that James W. Hines is a persof unsound mind, and is a fit subject for the luna sylum at Milledgeville. C. C. Simms, Jr., It is quite probable that Mr. Hines will be —A Lady's Frn Portrait of Mile. Rhes.

A lady traveler en route from Wheeling to Pittslung, sat in the same car with Mile. Rhes, and watched the artiste with the keenest interest, and wrote the following to a Boston paper:

"I left Wheeling last Treesday, and was fortunate chough to travel in the same car with that charming actrees and most asseinating woman, Mile. I had seen her many times before the footlights, and had admired her with all true lovers of art. feeling not only the influence of her charming personalty, but the excellence of her methods and the subtle power of her genling; and I was gind of an opportunity to study ner I saving in private life. I saw her lists in the waiting room, neatly attired in a dark bloe cloth dress, dark blue hat with a white vell, and a long wrap triunted heavily with sable. To each member of her company who hade her 'Good morning,' she had a pleasant unite. I followed her into the car and sat where I could best observe without annoying her. It was early in the morning, yet she gave no evidence of fatigue. Her face was bright and full of animation. When the train started she opened a book—one of those yellow covered acting editions of plays—and was soon absorbed in study. Quite unconscious of anything about her, her lips sometimes opened to give ultrance to a word that was probably hard to pronounce. I scanned her clear cut features carefully, the expressive mouth, the brilliant eyes. What courage, what energy, for a woman to fight her way alone, contending with the difficulties of a foreign language; yet with what grace she has succeeded. I now understand why she has so excited the enthusiasm of my lady friends, who pay wership to her picture as to their patron saint. The train stopped at her destination, and she rose to leave with her companions. As she passed my seat I could not refrain from thrusting into her hand the bunch of violets my friends had given me at parting, she looked surprised and said: "You know me, there" "Yes, and Emma Abbott has determined to make her approaching engagement more than usually attractive, and will present four positive novelties, appearing in the principle role of each. Much interest will be felt in her first appearance as Leonora in "ILTrovatore;" while the production of the exquisite love-lyric 'Ruy Bias' or "The Queen and The Lackey;" the brilliant opera comique, "Carnival of Venice; and the famous tragic opera "Lucretta Borgia," cannot fail to create a ripple of excitement and pleasurable anticipations among loves of music and theater-goes in general. The sale of seats will begin Monday evening, at Miller's book store.

evening danuary 19) was well calculated to exerte grave fears in the mind of a drinking man that he was threatened with a very violent attack of D. T. There was every indication that mature had suddenly provided a couple of extra sms, and that all three were going behind the horizon in a row, amid a display of tints which would have done credit to a first-class outbreak of aurora borealis. The bogus suns were about 30 degrees north and south of the real one, and it was hard to distinguish the true from the faise. The sight attacted general attention, and there were many surmises as to what was wrong with the machinery of the heavens.

The phenomenon was what saflors who traverse high latitudes call a "sun dog," and is brought about by some peculiar cculition of the atmosphere not well understood by scientists. The most probable cause is that the rays of light are reflected or refracted by passing through particles of ice in the higher atmosphere, the result being to sometimes give the speciator the impression of several surs, as was the case has night, while at other times bright circles or crosses are formed in the sky, always in the quarter in which the sun happens to be. Instances are to creered where the sun happens to be. Instances are on record where the sun has appeared to arctic explorers surrounded by half a dozen other stans, all as bright as the real one, while intertwined among them would be a number of rings and tands of white light of a very beautiful appearable.

Last evening, after the sun had disappeared before the herican, there remained behind a tall band of white light, which was visible for an hour after the disappearance of the luminary, and later in the evening the moon was surrounded by a curious set of rings.

No one knows better than those who have used Carter's Little Liver Pills what relief they have given when taken for dyspepsia, dizziness, pain in the side, constipation, discred stemach, &c. Try them.

S. B. N. Visiting Cards.

From the Philadelphia Record.

Washington, January 20.—The wife of a prominent public man sent out two men servants the offee day to return calls that had been made upon her by teaving cards at the hemes of her effers. Mrs. Hamilton Fish, who, when her husband was secretary of state, had the largest calling list that any woman in Washington ever had, returned all calls in person—visiting 2,500 or 3,000 in a brief ceason. But the new fashion for dignitaries just coming in isto return calls only "by card," either left from a certage, which gives one a tanglishing view of madame just as she drives away, or "S. R. N." as a southern senator once wrote on are ply to an invitation inscribed R. S. V. P.)—that is "sent By Nigger." Well, this particular Mrs. Dignitary chose the latter mode. Ent it was a cold day, and the cards, with which she had pleutikily supplied the darkies, got left at the group places. The messengers kept taking "a little sound-hing hof" until they could not read the list they had been given, and to avoid overlooking a name they will be cellers, utless they shall road this mether will be cellers, utless they shall road this. No Safer Remedy can be had for Coughs and Colds, or any Trouble of the Threat, than "Brown's Bronchial Troobss." Price Sc. Sold only in base.

HOW I GOT IT

HOW I LOST IT!

By A. E. GRAHAM. 139 State Street, Boston, Mass.

Facts. Facts. Facts are what we want!"-Gradgrind. I hurried out with silly haste, Fearing too much time 'twould waste My rubber shoes to reach and don; So in a twinkling I was gone.

The snow was deep, and my thin shoes Soon got soaked through, and wet my feet; And then I shivered. as with "blues," And punishment came, quite just and meet.

For it lacked but two days of a week From this event, that I was seized; Sciatic pains, in fury aught but meek Caught hold my limb. I was not ple

"Take a long trip to climates warm,"
They said; so I obeyed, and went
In search of the lands where darkeys swarm Till my small stock of wealth was spent

So all those months I suffered pain, Until I vowed in my disgust, Doctor's I'd ne'er consult again; And let the pains stay if they must.

Thus patiently resigned, I read The daily papers, and did see An advertisement, which said, "Scotch Outs Essence" would cure me.

Ah! Pooh!! I said, "physicians' talent "Has battled with my pain and ache;
"How can it be that Essence patent
"Can cure my case, for goodness' sake?"

I read it daily, then I said,
"I'll do like the lady pressed by lover, Marry to rid him;" so she wed.
I bought a bottle, then another. My friends all laughed (at what they called "Patent Medicine") without limit; And I laughed too, for soon I bawled, "Fm cured, & Scotch Oats Essence did it."

AN EXCELLENT PREMIUM.

THE CONSTITUTION GUN is now offered as a premium with the Daily. High prices at an end. Everybody can now read and shoot if they desire. THE CONSTITUTION has been clubbing a $24 Gun with its Weekly edition for the past three years, and has sold hundreds of them. We have been prevailed upon to club it with the Daily, and have decided to do so. The gun we offer is a

DOUBLE-BARRELLED SHOT GUN

And is of a very superior make. It is imported especially for us, and is warranted by the manufacturers. It is one of the best guns ever made, and in many respects superior to those usually sold for $30. We will club it with

THE DAILY CONSTITUTION ONE YEAR FOR $20.00.

Now, remember, you get both the gun and the Daily one year for about what you would have to pay retail dealers for the gun alone. It is a double-barrelied breech-loader, of handsome finish, with oiled walnut stock, pistol grip, and tested steel barrels. It weighs a trifle over seven pounds, and is a true shooter. We have the gun at our office and will be glad to show it to those who may call. We have received hundreds of certificates, from Texas to Virginia, telling of its merits. Now, don't you want one? If so, come in at once and subscribe for the Daily and you can get the gun at a reduced price. If you are already a subscriber, we will let you have the gun at $10. This is a good chance for you. Call at business office and see the gun.

ATLANTA, GA., JANUARY 28, 1888.

Two Letters.

We print elsewhere two communications relating to the internal revenue business, to which we desire to call the attention of our readers. One of these letters is from our correspondent, "Wide-Awake," and the other is written by Mr. N. C. Napier, the publisher of the Walker County Messenger. There are some facts and incidents related in both letters which not only emphasize what the writers say, but lend additional significance to the reasons which THE CON-STITUTION has given why the infamous system of federal direct taxation should be

Our correspondent "Wide-Awake" strikes the key-note, and his letter springs from an indignation that ought to animate every voter in the land who understands demo cratic principles, and who appreciates the personal liberty and rights of the citizen, no matter how poor and how humble he may be. The wrongs and outrages of twenty years cry out to the democratic party for redress, and yet that party, at least in congress, seems to be controlled by the ways and means committee of the house, and before this committee the interests of the people are apparently less important than the interests of the whisky ring.

COLONEL T. WARREN AKIN'S letter in another column gives a black eye to the infamous internal revenue system. As Colonel Akin very forcibly remarks, the system oppresses the whole people in an unnecessary way because the regulation of the matters involved could very well be left to the states.

MATTHEW ARNOLD thinks that Tolstoi is the greatest living novelist. Did Mr. Arnold ever hear of Edgar Fawcet.

France and the Panama Canal.

The question is frequently asked why should the French government be appealed to by De Lesseps to aid the Panama canal

The situation may be explained in a very few words. The Panama Canal company has 400,000 stockholders in France. These stockholders are persons of moderaic means, and some of them belong to the poorest class of people. They have invested the savings of a life time in the canal project. If each investor represents a family of three persons It will be seen that 1,200,000 people are interested in the enterprise. The sudden failnre of the scheme would therefore be felt by the French people generally.

De Lesseps cherishes the hope that the government will feel that it cannot ignore the interests of so many citizens, and that it will finally come to his relief. There is another inducement for the government to interfere. The capal company has received Important concessions of land embracing a large and fertile territory ten times as valuable as the French possessions in Africa. About twenty thousand Frenchmen are already colonized on this tract, and as France desires colonial expansion she will feel strongly tempted to hold on to the rich territory granted to De Lesseps and his associ

If the government persists in its refusal to support this enterprise there will be trouble they are about to lose their money they will kick, and they are strong enough to make themselves felt. It does not take much to start a revolution in France, and no better material could be desired than a million of so of people who are driven to desperation by their pecuniary grievances. Before this business is settled there will be trouble.

THE publisher of the Walker County Messenger has something interesting to say in reply to Collector Crenshaw's letter re cently published in these columns.

MR. BUMSTEAD, of the Atlanta universi-1v. has decided to give up the state's appuity of $8,000 rather than not teach whites and blacks together. The money, however, will be given to other colored institutions.

A Fair Proposition. It is claimed by quite a number of news papers which are indirectly aiding the whis-ky ring, as well as by journals that are boldly its organs, that a majority of the democrats in congress are opposed to the repeal of the internal revenue laws. THE CONSTITUTION refuses to believe this; in fact, from a partial examination, it Is satisfied that the statement is false. We do not believe that a majority of the democrats in congress are ready to misrepresent democratic principles, or to fly in the face of the people. We do not believe that a majority of the democratic members are willing to put themselves on record as favoring an outrageous system that is obnoxious to every democratic principle.

It may be true that the democratic members of the ways and means committee are opposed to the repeal of the internal revenue laws, for it is not probable they would other wise have been eligible to the position they hold; but the ways and means committee is not a majority of congress by considerable. Nevertheless, the ways and means committee is a very powerful affair. It has the power to smother and suppress measures that are intended for the relief of the people, and this power it has frequently exercised. It also has power to suppress an expression of on the part of the house, and when this fails the speaker has the power to refuse to recognize a member who desires to bring important questions to the attention

Bill after bill, resolution after resolution, has been introduced by democrats, only to be dropped into the smother-box of the ways and means committee. In other rds, the ways and means committee is ointed in the interest of a faction, and te work is carried on in the interests of a on, so that the real interests of the people are entirely lost sight of.

It would be refreshing, for instance, to have an expression of opinion from the democratic house of representatives on the subject of repealing the internal revenue laws. Should a majority of the democrats in the house refuse to vote for their repeal, THE CONSTITUTION has been saddled with a good deal of misinformation.

As to customhouse taxatlon, we may say that the tariff as it stands pleases nobody, and there is no trouble about a proper reduction; but the friends and agents and servants of the whisky ring will not permit the tariff to be touched until the internal revenue laws are indorsed. Naturally, democrats who depend on the approval of their constituents do not dare to indorse a system which the party has been fighting since its foundation, and the result is that we have neither repeal of the internal revenue system nor reform of the tariff.

Why not give the members of congress an opportunity to have a vote directly on the question of repeal or no repeal of the internal revenue laws? Does the whisky ring dare to give an opportunity for this test to be made? Such a test would greatly simplify matters. The people would then know exactly what to do. It would prevent the present agitation on the subject, and remit the whole question back to the people for their approval or disapproval.

As matters stand, the question is bound to ome up either in congress or before the people, and the fact that an expression of opinion is stifled in congress will only monstrate the power of the whisky ring, as well as its fear of a fair expression on this subject. Will our democratic friends, who are so clamorous for tariff reform, join us in a request that the house of representa tives give us a direct vote on this question? It can be very easily brought up. Let us know who it is that wants his law continued. We have been unable to find : nan in Georgia (not directly or indirectly interested in these laws) who wants them retained, and we want to hear from our congressmen. We believe a majority of the democratic members from this state will vote to repeal these laws when they get a chance; and then, so far as any reform in the tariff is concerned, we will go as far as any of them want to go on the line of the Chicago platform-the platform that elected our ticket in 1884. We have submitted a fair proposition, and we trust that this question will be brought to a direct vote in the house at an early LITTLE MR. "BILL" CHANDLER will soon find himself in very lonely condition. He will soon have no one to help him wave the bloody shirt but old man Muriatic Halstead, of Cincinnati.

SAM RANDALL's honesty and integrity are worth a great deal to the democratic party in Pennsylvania

Importing Liquor in a Dry Town. SANFORD, Fla., January 24, 1888.—Editors onstitution: We live in a dry town, and this ques-SANFORD, FIR., January Constitution: We live in a dry town, and this question has been spring: No temperance laws can prevent any one from importing drinks and selling same in original packages. We understand this question came up in your city, and we wish to ascertain if whisky can be imported from Cuba or any other country in bottles and the same sold in a dry town without violating the laws and subjecting the parties to prosecution. Being a subscriber to your paper, and having noticed from time to time your answers to many questions, we have decided o put this question, "which came up in your elec-on," and thus settle a dispute. READER, Liquor imported from a foreign country may be sold in the original packages in a prohibition town. This has been settled in Portland, Maine. It is probable, however, that the town could stop the sale by resorting to heavy license regulations. When a town is very dry the minority should not kick or resort to artful dodges.

Mrs. Chisholm's loveliness of character and Christian. If the is too well known for any unjust criticism not only to surprise but call forth the just indignation of her many friends.

A FRIEND.

From the Chicago Tribune Golden Days notes the fact that the month of February, 1866, had no full moon, while January had two and so had March. It adds that this is such a rare thing that it had not previously occurred "since the time of Washington, nor since the discovery of America, nor since the beginning of the Christian era, nor since the creation of the world. And it will not occur again, according to the computation of astronomers, for—how long do you think?—two and a half million years!"

It would be very wonderful if it were true, bu unfortunately it is not. There was no full moon in February, 1847. Neither was there one during that month in 1828 in any part of the United States haonta in the states, but one occurred at 1 o'clock in the morning of February 1, in Figland, which was before midnight of the last day of January in this country. In 1809 there was no full moon during February, either in Europe or America. In 1790 the moon was full at seven minutes before midnigh, of the last day of February, Chicago standard time, but it has day of February Chicago standard time, but it was then the morning of March I in Europe, and February of that year brought no full moon to the old world. In 1771 the full moons occurred at 70 clock in the evering of January 30 and five o clock in the unerning of March 1, both according o clock in the morning of March 1, both according to Greenwich time. Also in February, 1885, there was no full moon in any part of Europe, but one occurred at 10 o'clock in the evening of the 28th, Chicago time. It is not necessary to examine the record further to prove the faisity of the statement couled above. Evidently the "astronomers" are not the men who have done the figuring or

BIRDS OF PASSAGE.

MR. H. L. REAS, of North Carolina: "I have never known a governor to give such wide-spread dissatisfaction in the old north state as Scales is now giving. In his efforts to please both parties up there he has succeeded in putting both parties against him. Between the discussion over the tobacco tax, the pow wow about the tariff, and the unhappy administration of Governor Scales the state is hopelessly split up, and I would not be a bit surprised to see the 20,000 democratic majority rolled up last time vanish before a round majority for the republicans at the next presidential sleets, if resolvential is not done to heal the ial election, if something is not done to heal the dissentions which now threaten to destroy the pow r of the democratic party of that state.

The last time they were used was in the last shannon fight, when Colonel Shannon was illed. They are murderous looking weapons, teneral E. W. Moise owns them, I think."

HON. WALTER B. HILL, of Macon: "The notion for a new trial has not been filed yet, but bubtless will be in time to have the sentence suspended until the motion is finally disposed of. An Interesting Theory of the Origin of

From an Exchange.

In speaking of blizzards even the scientific signal service man is accustomed to say that a "Manitoba" wave is coming, and this has been so often relierated that many people have at last come to believe that blizzards are home productions of that section of the Canadian Dominion. Manitoba, owever, can hardly carry off the credit for raising the wind in this extraordinary manner. The origin and operation of the blizzards and their partiality r Dakota, western Minnesota, Iowa, Kansas and Nebraska and the territory even farther south are worth at least a little theorizing.

Why is it that east of the Mississippi river they are only felt with diminished force, and east of the oblio line; for instance, that is in the central states, New York and New England, hardly at all? The county some to be a furnice of the obligation of the county some to be a furnice on the county some the eply seems to be a simple one. The southern part f British America, from Labrador west to the per shores of Lake Superior, is traversed by what i shown as the Laurentian, and at the extreme west of the Huronian mountains, composed in reality of an enormous rock formation, the oldest yet discovered, with no shells or fossils to tell us its age or at what time it lifted its wall above the waters. It is the oldest sedim rock found on the globe. The thickness of its beds has been estimated at 30,000 feet. It rises in hills and mountains 4,000 feet, high, and on the gorges of the Saguenay forms sheer cliffs 1,500 feet high makes a solid, everlasting rock barrier no wind, be it blizzard or tornado, can pass. It shelters all the country to the south of it from the icy blasts sweep-ing down from the Arctic regions. At western limit they may strike against it and deflect like water meeting an obstacle, and in Wisconsin, eastern Minnesota, Michigan, and Illinois they may be felt with dialn-ished force. West of that limit, however, there is no reak. Between a line from that point north and south and the Rockies and Sierras, which guard all to the west of them, stretches one vast t plateau from the polar regions straight south to the Gulf of Mexico. Along the plateau Boreas, starting from the pole, finds no obstruction in his path. He comes down with a rush, sweeping everything before him, chilling and freezing every-thing he encounters, and planting his snow, sleet and ice even on the shores of the far off Gulf of Mexico. The mere favored regions south of these gigantic mountains of rock interposing their friendly arrier know little of the terrors of these bit Arctic currents, which carry death and destruction along with them to the dwellers on the plain. Manitoba is only a mid-station on the road from the pole to the gulf. It is not the home of the blizzard.

Paying a Preacher in Tobacco.

Mary Gay Humphreys in American Magazine A large vestry book, extending from 1723 to 1771, is still carefully preserved, having been rescued from some old country records by Mr. Young. From this chromete one can get a granupse of the state of society and its economic condition. Ecclesiastical currency, as is well known, was to-bacco. For the service of the church each "tith-able" was assessed every year so many pounds. We find such entries as these To Mr. Barlow, for 17 sermons at 350 lbs. to-To Rev. John R id, salary. To ditto, for board 1,500

To ditto, for clerk 1,000
To Mary Clark, sexton 400
Agreed with James Briggs to keep Eliza Mipet for one year and to find her in cloaths for 1,250 lbs. to

To Widow Lawrence being pore 500 lbs. tobacco. From an entry before the book closes it appears that 16,000 lbs. of tobacco sold for £101 lls. 11d. The church expenses averaged about 70,000 pounds tobacco a year, or in the neighborhood of £450. The price of tobacco varied; but that there should not be an unlimited currency, as it were, the parish was divided into districts, and each year apeared such records as: Samuel Davis and William Bridger are appointed viewers of tobacco from the river of Blackwater. It was the business of these viewers, or tellers, as they were sometimes called, to estimate and restrict the number of young plants, that there might not be overproduction, lest the church income suffer from ow prices. From the Nashville Banner.

The Boston Herald, referring to the ever in creasing love of fiction in literature, says "this love of fiction in literature is that common weakness that makes the whole world kin. That world was indeed in its infancy when it was not allowed this gratification, though, probably, there has been no period since that of Homerwhen men did not gather round the story-teller. The saddest state of man was when this yearning was suppressed and denounced as a mark of the influence of ¡Satan. Through the shack lost then placed hours of the saddest state. ough the shackles then riveted burst the aut of The Pilgrim's Progress, with his immortal allegory. There are men now not very old who can remember when the sin of novel reading was one of the stock condemnations of the pulpit. Even now there are parsons who would like to exorcise it. But it is too late. The only danger attending it is, like the danger attending other good things, that it may be carried to excess."

Pathetic Tale of a Widow.

From a New York Letter. A young woman, born in Brooklyst of re-pertable and well-to-do parents, married an old san, who left her a widow with a comfortable fortune in a very short time. She fell under the bale ful influence of a foreign doctor, who alienated he from her family, obtained possession of her proper ty, moved with her to New York, dragging his own frightened, helpless family with him, located her rightened, herpiess family with min, accurate a virtual prisoner in a house not far from the one he occupied, kept her absolutely from the eyes of friends, family, strangers, and dominated her in mind, body and estate, to such an extent that she became a literal wreck. Knowing perfectly well her constitution he permitted go to a dentist and to take chloroform. Within three hours she was seized with hemorrhage and died. All the afternoon, all the night, and a greater part of the next day the dead body lay in the room where the woman had fallen, with not a soul in house except a frightened and unfed servant. An undertaker was called, and strangely enough, for it an arsenical preparation into it. Humor and go took the news of the woman's death to her pare took the news of the woman's death to her parents and relatives. A few pennies only were found in the house, and the servant or servants had had nothing to eat for nearly thirty-six hours. Instead of luxury and comfer there was evidence of comparative pover ty, and at once upon the wings of rumor flew a thousand absurd and contradictory stories. The doctor had his say and kept it up. His head hard as a bullet, his skin like tanned hide, knew no delieacy of thought. There was no sentime him; but the parents, bereaved, grieved, hurt youd the power of words to picture or pen describe, had nothing to say, nothing to do, but to take the well-styled remains, with old-time love, and bear the body with tenderest affection to their grounds in Greenwood. There may have been no tragedy there certainly was romance and melo-drama there. Who had the better of it? The sensitive friends or the brutal doctor? Just so in all this gossip busi-ness, the money-grabbing publishers, reckless as to consequence, sow seeds of discord broadcast over the land and their victims suffer.

INFAMOUS REVENUE.

Voices Still Protesting Against the Great Spy Law.

REASONS WHY REPEAL IS DEMANDED

Wide-Awake" Returns to the Battle With Renewed Vigor-Colonel Napier is Heard From.

EDITORS CONSTITUTION: Have Collector Crenshaw and Larry Gantt become the only advo-cates of the "infernal internal revenue" system in the state of Georgia, or has the argument of the free traders completely 'frittered out' in their organs and are they only relying upon such opinions' Perhaps it has never occurred to either Collector Crenshaw or Deputy Gantt, that the country will Creushaw or Deputy Gantt, that the country will hardly sympathize with them in such advocacy, when it is recollected that they perhaps seek the perpetuation of the system only solong as they are personally interested, for friend I arry has made the Banner-Watchman fairly snort in days gone by, in his denunciation of the system, as car.ied out under republican rule, and our recollection is, there was never more arrests than we find in these latter days, although we are led to believe they are not so many hardships are led to believe there are not so many hardships or cruelties, as in former years; (at least we do not hear of so many.) Senator Brown had no reason to misrepresent the revenue service; he is too shrewd and politic to misinform the senate and his co nency in Georgia on this subject, for the proof was at his hand, when he said, "the internal revenue system is one of spies, informers, domiciliary vexation, frivolous prosecutions, illegal seizures, cruel oppression and murder."

Nobody holds Collector Crenshaw or his ready deputy, responsible for the system liself, and it smacks loudly of assumacy, when they dictate measures for the country, in the newspapers, especially when they are only zemployes of the government, not expected to do more than collect the duties, at present imposed on liquor and tobacco—until the law is repealed. Senator Brown, in his speech before the senate, said there were during the last fiscal year 85 collectors. 950 deputy collectors, 184 clerks-some of whom received four teen, fifteen, sixteen and eighteen hundred dollars per annum, and others smaller salaries. There were 35 porters and messengers, 625 gaugers, 555 store-keepers, and 757 who acted as both storekeepers and gaugers—about 4,000 persons."

Now, Mr. Editor, if all the 4,000 would squall as loudly as Collector Crenshaw and Deputy Ganti have done, and the squall increases in Intensity up to the time when congress shall wipe out this system of "spies, informers, arrests," etc., then it becomes evident that the system has other evi's in attendance beyond those so distinctly enumerated in Senator Brown's speech. With the kindest feelings toward both these ill-advised free-trade internal revenue officials, it is about time to call a halt! The internal commissioner at Washington has also been interviewed in the Macon Telegraph, and as his views has the same coloring, and his pockets the same sort of pay, he presumes to say that the system (so fairly exposed in Senator Brown's speech) is altogether levely, gentle and just. It is astonishing ow private interest does make patriotism squint in such positions!

Four thousand officials, unknown to this country before the war, now swarm over us. In ten years these officials have instituted nearly five tho prosecutions in Georgia alone; and nearly half of bese prosecutions were laseless and without proportion day of trial, and yet these officials were allow drag innocent men-sometimes a hundred mile rom their homes-thrust them into prisons, and con lemn them to jail punishment without the slightest provocation. It was clearly shown, some years ago, that each arrest paid somebody a handsome sum for mileage, and such officials were then proverbial for full pockets. Should it appear that similar arrests are now made, such false imprison-ment compelled, at present, both Collector Creushaw and Deputy Gantt could be better employed than in defending the liquor traffic or free trade, as fostered and protected by the internal revenue collection system, now in force. If they are free traders-well and good. They have perfect liberty to defend their faith anywhere, but it is not seemly that either should rise up to say, that the state of Georgia should longer submit to the evils of the revenue system, or that citizens of our state should longer be exposed to injustice, false imprisonment and degradation in the jails of the country, when they are guiltless of erime against the laws of this land. Nobody de-fends violation of faw; no screen is interposed etween criminals and punishment, but the facts go to show that nearly one-half the people arrested by revenue officials in the past ten years were inno-cent people, and their liberty was taken away, and degradation, shame and soffering inposed, that a fat profit might go to the hocke of officials employed by the government, simply to protect the mammoth whisky ring in its monopoly.

The legislatures of Georgia have frequently demanded of congress the repeal of the law au-thorizing the system. The people of the state were a unit for such repeal until it was linked to the free trade tallacy, and it would now appear that, having sarmed some folks at our her into the newspapers to perpetuate the very evil that is so galling and obnoxious. Fie! Fie!
Nobody ever saw liquor more plentiful than at present. The drink bill of 1887 will reach one thousand millions of dollars. The sum of eighty-seven millions was received in duty, and allowing frauds, pretended leakage, exports of whisky with paid no duty, the probabilities are that it she have been half as large again as here quoted. we are building new, storehouses in Washington to hold the money, like that fated character in the Bible who tore down his little barns to build bigger ones, until Divine Justice called him to a sudden judgment. Our author ties shut eyes and ears to the cry of distress, of poverty, of ignorance, and every road and by-path in north Georgia is kept hot with revenue officials, who are hunting down the men who live in these mountain localities, and when the vide informer picks out his victim a reve-nue officer c'aps the handcuffs on the unfortunate and hies him away to a jail in Atlanta, becoming udee, jury and sheriff at one time, and taking awa liberty and good name, until some opportunity for trial is allowed, and then, if innocent, the poor mountainer is turned loose to make his way back to his anxious home as best he may, while the revenu officers start off on a fresh trail after a new victim Some years ago, a good citizen of Cherokee county was arrested at his home for selling a few "hands" of tobacco to some hired men, (without a license who helped him to raise it. He was handcuffed made to trot alongside the mounted officer, carried thirty miles to the milroad, and then shipped to Atlanta jail to await his trial. This happe Georgia, and the degradation was heaped on a hard-working, truthful man, who never dreamed that he had done a wrong, and who will now say that he had committed a punishable crime? On that day your correspondent recorded a vow, that while life lasted, no compromise could ever be entertained lasted, no compromise could ever be entertained which looked to a perpetuation of such tyranny. It is wrong per se. No free people should tolerate i longer than they are able to reach the ballot bo and vote it out, by voting for those, in both state and national elections, who are invariably pledged to its repeal and abolishment in toto. If free trade means direct taxation, of lhis sort, it will soon discover the handwriting on the wall. The intelli-gence of this nation will spew it out. The civilizaion of America will repudiate it, and the humanity of our people will spurn such injustice, until it is obliterated from our statute books.

Collector Crenshaw

LAFAYETTE, January 26, 1888.-Editors Con stisution: I see from your issue of the 21st instant, that the Walker County Messenger has the honor of causing Collector Crenshaw to take up his pen indefense of the revenue system. The editorial you copied from our columns was, he admits, the feather that broke the camel's back. He could have stood your denunciation of the law as oppression worse than Russian despotism, but when an humble theet like the Messenger dared to make definite charges, sustained by positive proof, he felt called upon to enter the arena

UNow that he has entered it, what has he done He has belabored the Messenger faithfully, blindly and ridiculously. Unlike most Georgians, he does not read THE COSTITUTION, and is not posted on current events. He does not seem to know that the occurrences on which our charges were based transpired in Cherokee county, and not in Walker. He rehearses the McCoy-Kellett case, which is abso-He rehearses the McCoy-Kellett case, which is absolutely and entirely foreign. He reaches his highest flight when he says: "In civilized counties no man is condenmed for the prosecution of an alleged nurderer, nor censured for endeavoring to punish an assassin." This is a fine special counties a shell test of the proof of the pr men of scaring, but unfortunately it has absolutely nothing to do with the case.

All good citizens would have been gratified to have seen the murderer of Captain Kellett convicte and punished. But they left the question of McCoy's guilt or innocence to the thoroughly competent jury before whom he was tried and by whom he was nequitted. After his acquittal here, he was held under a warrant from the superior cours of Cherokee, and was turned over to the sherif of that county. Then he was charged with resultance beputy Marshal Campbell when he arrested his two years ago, ithough Campbell swore that he did not tell him he was an officer. not tell him he was an offi five thousand dollar bond was requi-him in that trivial case. The demand amount of ball had but one object—to ja possible. Then, and only then, made the defluite charge, which Mr. Crenso utterly ignored. We said it was op and that that oppression characterized. and that that oppression characterized and digraced the revenue service. Our code says disting y that excessive ball shall not be required. West ly that excessive ball shall not be required. Without that provision of law, the poor and friend would be at the mercy of any unjust judge. With Mr. Crenshaw dare to say that the demanding that excessive ball from McCoy was not oppression? He may have been a pression? He may have been a pression? He has too any unit in the eye of the law, and was certainly entitled at the rights of a human being.

Mr. Crenshaw claims that the revenue service had no connection with the McCoy case was in the contract of the rights of a human being.

the rights of a human being.

Mr. Crenshaw claims that the revenue service had no connection with the aleCoy case whaters we admit that the deputy marshals are lot appointed by the collector. But in common palanthe are called revenue officers, and the swarm of them that covers the state owe their existence is and find their employment from the revenue survice. It stands then justly chargeable with the oppression. Blot out the one, and the other will coasse in exist. ise to exist to find a case of oppression. Here in Walker, those ton Holland, a poor but worthy boy, was charged with violating the revenue laws. He was arrested with violating the revenue raws. He was accessed by a deputy marshal and taken t: Atlanta adjustance of over one hundred miles. It was found that there was no case against him. Then, like a dag, he was turned loose, and left without friends or money to make his way back to his home as best he could. Does Mr. Crenshaw stand ready, Pllate like, to wash his hands of this case?

Yes, Mr. Collector, the oppression that characterizes the service has made it a stink in the nostrils of the people, though it is not expected that those who are partaking of the loaves and fishes will receive the foul odor.
But Mr. Crenshaw can rest easy. He is and will continue to be secure in his position. The system is under the ban of public opinion, but the people, like Sinbad, the sailor, are saddled with a burden that they cannot shake off. They are powerless against the money with its liberty crushing infuence, that is interested in continuing the system. Respectfully,

MACON AND COVINGTON

A New Railroad System for the State Assured. BACKED BY BROWNS, OF BALTIMORE

ething about the Outlook for the Completion of the Road-To Atlanta and to Athens, From Macon. The Macon and Covington railroad will be built, and it will be built soon.

From Monticellosto which place it is now running from Macon, it will be extended to Madison and to Athens, and also from Monticello to Atlanta. There is now not the shadow of a doubt but that this road, which has had a harder time in its infancy than any other railroad in the world, will be completed according to its first projection. Thus Atlanta is promised another railroad; and it is more than probable that the building of this railroad to Atlanta will be the beginning of the building of a new route to the sea, by way of Eatonton and Waynesboro the sea, by way of Eatonton and Waynesboro to Port Royal.

The man who descries most credit for all this, is Colonel E. C. Machen, who for three years has been working for the road, and has encountered more trouble than any man ever did in a similar undertaking. I met Colonel Machen in the city yesterday, he having come here from Macon to meet the man whose interest in the road assures its carly completion. This man is Mr. Alexander Brown, of Baltimore, the managing partner of the great banking house of Alexander Brown & Sons, of Baltimore, which is the parent house of the celebrated establishments of Brown, Brothers & Co., of New York, Philadelphia and Boston, and of Brown, Shipley & Co., of London. Mr. Brown, himself, is the grandson of the founder of the establishment, and though a young man yet in his thirties, he is the American mainstay of the great banking house known throughout the world.

The story of his interest in the enterprise, which is fraught with so much importance to the state of Georgia, is an interesting one; and to tell it is to give just credit to the wonderful man, whose marvelous enterprise will result in giving to Georgia another magnificent system of railroads, for to Colonel Machen as much as to any one, is due the success of the Marietta and North Georgia railroad.

I remember when Colonel Machen came to Georgia three years ago, coming as the representative of wealthy New York capitalists, to bny the Atlanta with a check for $20,000, from the Cornell Brothers, of New York, and made a direct proposition to buy. For some reason or other, however, Atlanta very wisely concluded that it was best to keep her waterworks, and notified Colonel Machen of the fact. Negotiations however, Atlanta very wisely concluded that was best to keep her waterworks, and notified Colonel Machen of the fact. Negotiation were soon off, but the energetic colonel, havin once found himself here, concluded the Georgia offered an inviting field for a energetic and practical man who could command capital for the development of he resources. He soon became interested in the Macon and Covington road, applied for a chatter, which was granted, and in a few month he found himself in Macon at the head of company, and began at once the construction of that road.

"When I looked at the map," said he, "saw that there was a magnificent field for

It was my original idea to build be tween these two points, and meeting with hear encouragement along the line I soon had me railroad underway. I had all the money railroad underway. I had all the money I wanted to complete it, and was getting along splendidly in every respect. In 1886, however, frouble overtook me; the contractors failed to meet their obligations; one law suit after another followed; other railroads began to throw a net work of obstruction around me, and I was so much hampered that I was compelled to suspend work for a while. To add to my trouble, my health began to fail and grow worse and worse. I was violently ill when in New York a year ago, and for a month lingered on my bed expecting to die at any moment. As you see, however. I to die at any moment. As you see, however, have righted myself. My road is on the wa impletion is now as Colonel Machen said this to me yesterday, when I saw him for the first time since I met him in London last June. I had met him in Atlanta before, and had become pretty well acquainted with his undertaking.

I was astonished to meet him in London, having heard that he had gone to New York to die. He told me, however, that he had beer commanded by his physician to abandon all

He said this to me in the American exchange and though he still wore the marks of a recontillness, he was yet a mot active looking man for one who had been given up for dead but two months before. But to such an energetic temperament, however as his, to forego business, was a matter of impossibility; and I believe that while in Loudon he was working harder for the raitroad, which had been abandoned in Georgia, than he would if he had been here. He saw capitalist afte capitalist, explained to them the merits of the road with that wonderful degree of earnestnes which he commands, and while recuperating himself in Loudon, succeeded in making at rangements which would again put himself in Loudon, succeeded in was that he met Mr. Brown, of the house of Brown Blipley & Co., of Loudon, the financial agent of the United States and Europe, and succeeded in getting him interested in his enter and though he still wore the marks of seeded in getting him interested in his ent ptise sufficiently to get a favorable letter t Alexander Brown & Sons, in Haltimore, M Brown, in London, being the father of th present Mr. Alexander Brown of the Batt work for the Mr.

This bein settled, I suppose I am now at liberty to tal and tell what I know about the matter.

Returning to America, he laid his plans is fore Mr. Alexander Brown in Baltimore, an being convinced of the merit of the undertal lag, Mr. Brown was soon interested to the etent of agreeing to back the road to its complition. He was in the city two hom yesterday, leaving on the 2:30 train with Coucle Machen for Macon, where he was met the mayor and lending citizens of that planan night. During his two hours here he we driven over the principal streets behind Gournor Gordon's magnificent grays; and e pressed himself as being delighted with Atlant He is a man who talks but little, and thin lots. I showed him the following article fro the financial columns of the Baltimore American, and asked him if it correctly express his connection with the road:

Alexander Brown, & Sons have, completed the regulations with the Covington and Macon ray and company, and have made an arrangement under, which 'they will take the box of the company as fast as they are issued, as table sections of the road are completed. They a set a large block of the stock, which virtually given control of the company. The road, though present only in running order from Macon isomicello, shows very handsome earning is being rapidly pushed, and will complete to Madison inside of sixty days, and Athena in about five months, where it will complete to Madison inside of sixty days, and with the Northeastern milroad of Georgia, as well with the Scabourd and Roanoke system, which being extended to that point. Brainers are al course of construction from Monticello castwa zatonton, there to connect with the Central radi of Georgia; from Monticello westward to Griffin northwest through Covington to Atlanta. Then he was charged with resisting Deputy Marshal Campbell when he arrested him two years ago, though Campbell when he arrested him two years ago, though Campbell savou that he did not tell him he was an officer. A five thousand dollar bond was required of him in that trivial case. The demand for the amount of bail had but one object—to hall him it possible. Then, and only then, the Messonges made the defluite charge, which Mr. Crenshaw has so utterly ignored. We said it was oppression and that that oppression characterized and disgraced the revenue service. Our code says distinctly that excessive ball shall not be required. With out that provision of law, the poor and friend swould be at the mercy of any unjust jodge. Will Mr. Crenshaw dare to say that the demanding of that excessive hall from McCoy was not oppression? He may have been a red handed murderer, but he stood acquitted in the eye of the law, and was certainly entitled to the rights of a human being.

Mr. Crenshaw claims that the revenue service has had no connection with the allocoy case whatever we down that the connection with the allocoy case whatever we control to the time of the control Mr. Cremshaw claims that the revenue service had no connection with the alcoy case whatever. We admit that the deputy marshals are not as pointed by the collector. It stands then justly chargeable with their oppression. Blot out the one, and the other will cease to exist.

But it is not necessary to go to Cherokee county to find a case of oppression. Here in Walker, Houston Holland, a poor but worthy boy, was charged with violating the revenue laws. He was arrested by a deputy marshal and taken to Atlanta, adiatance of over one hundred miles. It was found that there was no case against him. Then, like a dag, he was turned loose, and left without friends or money to make his way back to his home as best he could. Does Mr. Crenshaw stand ready, Pliate like, to wash his hands of this case?

Yes, Mr. Collector, the oppression that characterizes the service has made it a stink in the nostrils of the people, though it is not expected that those who are partaking of the loaves and fishes will perceive the foul ode.

But Mr. Crenshaw can rest easy. He is and will continue to be secure in his position. The system is under the ban of public opinion, but the people, like Sinbad, the sailor, are saddled with a burden that they cannot shake off. They are powerless against the money with its liberty crushing influence, that is interested in continuing the iniquious system. Respectfully, N. C. NAPIER,

Fireman Harbuck and Whitlock, the Fight-er. In the Criminal Court. The tight between these men, near the Broad street bridge, got both into trouble. After Recorder Anderson finished with them they were turned over to the tender mercy of the grand jury.

True bills were found against both for assault and battery.

Whitlock's case was docketed in the city court and Harbuck's was docketed in the superior court.

Yesterday the case against Harbuck was called in Judge Richard H. Clark's court.
Solicitor-General Hill suggested that the case be nol-prossed, upon the defendant's paying the costs. He said that the fight didn't amount to much, and the combatants had unt to much, and the combatants had made up.

The case was marked settled, and Mr. Harbuck was discharged.

Several Pleasant Entertainments in Atlanta Last Night.

MERRY DANCERS AT . THE KIMBALL Musicales at the Atlanta Female Institute and Washington Seminary-Some Notes About People.

One of the most delightful dances of the ason took place at the Kimbali house last night. It was given by the young men of Atlanta in honor of Miss Mildred Jones, of Seima, Ala., a charming and beautiful young lady, who is visiting Miss Lizzie Hillyer, of this city.

The ball room presented a dazzling appearance.

The ladies, all in exquisite toilettes, presented a vision of bewildering loveliness as they moved with infinite grace amid the delightful measures of the dance to entrancing strains of music.

There were present, Miss Mildred Jones, of Selma, Willie Bell, Mamie Metcalf, Jessie Tobin, Emma Stewart, of Macon, Mary McGhoe, Belle Creary,

Mary Ella Reid, Lillie Orme, Ida Hightower, Lizzie

Hillyer, Mrs. Robert Lowry, Mrs. Charles Wells, Mrs. J. P. Stevens, Mrs. Frank Miller, Messrs. Andrew Anderson, J. K. Curtwright, Sam Hall. Bob Farrar, J. F. Hickey, R. C. Freeman, O. J. Peeples, P. H. Snook, Jr., Charles Norman, C. E. Little, of Macon, Tap Holt, J. H. Lovejoy, Ike Love-joy, Hugh Adams, Frank Walker, H. M. Malone, T. A. Conkliu, William Harbison, Walter Smith, J. P. Stevens, Robert Lowery, Charles Wells.

At the Methodist church in Cartersville, Miss Nelle Johnson, a popular young lady of that city, will be married, on next Wednesday, to Mr. James S. Goodwin, of Kingston. Rev. Mr. Adams

An elegant and select audience of more than one hundred attended the "students' musicale" at the Female institute last night. Every number of the programme was received with rounds of applause, and delivered with great accuracy and taste.

Especially meritorious was the singing of Misses Hattie and Annie Inman and Miss Charlotte Elliot. The playing of Miss Louise Romare and Miss Leonore Schumann however was far above the Leonore Schumann, however, was far above the amateur level and certainly rose to the height of an artistic performance. Young Master Elward Bak, though only thirteen years old, did his part so marelously well as to elicit the enthusiastic plaudits of his hearers and to become the recipient of compliments and caresses from many a lady.

When Mr. Sternberg came here one year ago his high reputation, which preceded him, naturally gave rise to great expectations; but exalted as they may have been, they have been more than fulfilled, as last night's musicale proved.

The public may well thank Mrs. Ballari for her bold enterprise in inducing so reputed an artist as Mr. Sternberg to come here, thus placing Atlanta, musically, on a footing with the larger cities of the berg's immediate attention:

The musical hall of the Washington Female seminary was filled to its utmost capacity last night with the friends and patrons of the school. The piano class of Mr. Alfredo Barili gave an entertain-ment of great excellence. The following programme

The audience was very appreciative, and gave each performer a liberal share of applause. Without exception, the young ladies gave a creditable performance. Where all did so conspicuously well, it were, perhaps, indiscreet to single out any as de-serving of especial praise. But this must be done in istice to four young ladies, who produced a furor by their exceptionally fine playing.

Miss Catharin: Vertress, in her rendering of Hursett's variations on the "Elixir of Life," displayed marvelous powers. Her technique is surprising. Her phrasing is excellent and her fingering dainty. She is certainly a finished planist.

The playing of Miss Maude Watson was artistic,

BUSINESS REVIEW

More Encouraging Outlook -Effects the Strike on the Iron Trade.

the Strike on the Iron Trade.

New York, January 27—R. G. Dun & Co's Weekly Review of Trade says:

Business, both domestic and foreign, has a more encouraging appearance. Money is reported close, at a very few distant points, but comparatively easy everywhere else, and collections are fair in all quarters, with substantial improvement where tardiness has been affected by storms and block ading the railroads, but is generally fair for the season, and exchanges outside of New York are 3.7 per ceut larger than for the some period last year, it is a decid dily healthy symptom that there is a general absence of speculative exc tement, and prioes of products are in most cases settling toward a more natural level, though the average is sustained by the scarcity of anthractic coal, scanty supply of —vegetables, and advance in cotton goods. Foreign trade in December was much more favorable than early statements indicated, the decrease in exports of cotton, breadstuffs and provisions being partly balanced by an increase in cattle, petroleum and minor interests. The excess of exports over imports of merchandise, $21,130,788 for the month, with outgoing silver exceeding incoming gold by $679,689, mifcetes the withdrawal of capitol exceeding by $12,000,000, the average required by interest payments and underestimations, but for the past six months receipts of foreign capital have apparently exceeded withdrawals by $55,000,000. Returns for January, thus far, indicate an increase of five per cent in the exports over last year's prices, having lately encouraged a more free movement of products, but imports at New York thus far show an increase of 11 per cent. As exports exceeded imports by twenty millions last January, these reports point to a continue, and the scarcity of coal at many manufacturing points contrasis with the official reports of a large movement to tide water. Companies not obliged to stop work are vastly increasing their out-paid on the Reading and Lebigh for supplies of ace, have been observed to stop. Iron i

THROWER VS. BARKER.

A very Sensational Sult Filed in the Superior Court.

THROWER FINED $50 AND COSTS

Why Judge Clark Was Lenient-Papers and Affidavits Serious Charges --Talk of a Stander Suit. There was filed yesterday morning in the office of the clerk of the superior court a suit for $10,000 damages against Charles D. Burker. The complainant is J. G. Thrower, the prominent prohibitionist. The defendant is also a prominent prohibitionist.

The complainant charges the defendant with "falsely and maliciously saying of and censur-ing him, the 4th of November, 1887, in the presence of R. B. Harrison and John F. Wynne, the following false and malicious words, towit: 'I have a bad thing on J. G. Thrower. It would be a big scandal, but I have been advised not to publish it as it would hurt the prohibition cause. I can prove that Thrower has an illegitimate child and supports

The complainant is represented by Charles W. Smith.

This suit grows out of the case in Judge Clark's court. Yesterday morning Thrower, who was con victed of assault upon Barker, was arraigned for sentence in the criminal branch of the Judge Clark had a big batch of affidavits and etters nich had been given him by the defendant s counsel. These affidavits set forth various facts tending to show that Thrower was driven on by the prosecutor and was acting upon great provocation when he attacked him with a stick. Several letters were given, written by Barker, speaking of Thrower in the most offensive terms. In these communications, Barker made some damaging accusations against Thrower. These papers were not admitted as evidence in the attention. The idea was to induce him to make the sentence as light as possible

Judge Clark considered these papers care fully. In passing sentence upon Thrower he made a few remarks. Said he: "I shall make this sentence light, because I know there are extenuating circumstances which should have weight with the court. That the defendant was provoked by the prosecutor there can be no doubt. There certainly was strong provocation. But, sir, words do not justify an assault. You attacked Barker with a stick while he was sitting in a chair. If he had slandered you, it was for you to seek redress in another way. On both the civil and criminal sides of court you had your remedy. I would impose upon you a much heavier fine, but for this provocation. You are a prominent citizen, the head of an order which has as one of its cardinal mottoes peace, yet you commit an assault upon a citizen. The fact that you hold the prominent position in society that you do, is a reason why a very se vere sentence ought to be imposed upon you. But, as I intimated, there are extenuating circumstances in your case. The court, therefore, sentences you to pay a fine of $50 and costs." Captain Frank Myers began figuring the costs.

"How much are the costs?" was asked.

"Just twenty-two dollars," was the reply.

Mr. Thrower paid the fine.
It is understood that Mr. Thrower will institute a suit against Barker for libel in the criminal court.

Glenny & Violett's Report.

NEW OBLEANS, January 27.—[Special.]— Receipts at the ports for this week were eighty-nine thousand against one hundred and thirty-three thousand same week last year, and interior receipts were twenty-two thousand five hundred against fifty-three thousand this week last year. The plantation movement is about sixty-four thousand against one hundred and twenty-five thousand last year, which movement represents the increase in sight since last Friday. If, therefore, we continue to lose fifty to sixty thousand bales in the plantation supply per week, we will soon see present excess wiped out. Factors here generally say we will not receive, after this date, fifty per cent of their receipts of last year. Market was cent of their receipts of last year. Market was again disappointing today, and closed several points lower, both here and New York. Closing: February, 9.98 to 90; March, 10.65 to 6; April, 10.14 to 15; May, 10.24 to 5; June, 10.34 to 5; July, 10.44 to 5; October, 9.60 to 2.

-4,453,993 NEW YORK, January 27-C. I. Green & Co. in heir report on cotton futures today, say: They have undergone considerable fuetuations loday with, at lines, considerable tendency to weaken, but there times, considerable tendency to weaken, but there was again a development of exhaustive capacity that has taken care of the supply very well, and prevented a general and serious shrinkage of value. The figures shown in a smaller draft upon stocks than anticipated, with receipts rather above calculations, and this, in conjunction with a pretty free floating of February notices, created a depressing influence, under which the c.st, after going up two points, dropped 7628 points from the highest. The loss was afterward about half recovered, and finally again shaded and laft the final figures 254 points under last evaning with the tone somewhat slack. All things considered, however, the marke t stood up fairly, and, aside from the shaking out some of longs offerings were carefully made.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Grain and Produce. Special to The Constitution.

CHICAGO, January 27—The opening on 'change today was dull and and almost featureless. The groin markets were rather flat at the start, but hardened almost immediately. Wheat displayed less firmess than corn. May opened at $1%, but was neglected for some little time after the 'opening. May dropped to $1%, but later on active bidding by a prominent broker rushed it up to $1%. There was a shorp bulge in all of the markets just before the close and big buying by several prominent houses forced another advance in May which closed at $3%.

Corn opened dull and continued so for sor Corn opened dull and continued so for some time, May selling off from 53% to 52%, when it was discovered that the pit scalpers had oversold them selves and there was a reaction to 53%. By noon a covering be aborts and other buying had shoved May up to 55% 53% at which figure it closed. There was little corn sold under 53% and there was a good buying demand at 38.

Oats were quiet and active and closed at a fair advance, May at 33%. Provisious opened firm on light recents of bear vance, May at 33%.

Provisious opened firm on light receipts of hogs, but would-be purchasers soon discovered that there was plenty of property for sale and prices softened. Map pork opened at $14.00, advanced to $14.62%, declined under liberal offerings at $14.02%, advanced again on good buying to $14.55 and then became very dull. Toward the close of the session several prominent operators bought lard freely. Pork advanced in sympathy, May closing at $14.72%.

Lard was quiet and active at the close and prices were advanced in $4.00%, and closed at the top.

Short ribe advanced about 12% and May closed at 7.55.

THINGS ABOUT TOWN.

Mrs. Sallie F. Smith, wife of Mr. E. A. Smith, assistant car inspector of the Central railroad, was interred in Oakland cemetery yesterday afternoon. The funeral took place from the residence on Fair street at 2 p. m. Rev. J. W. Lee and Rev. H. J. Ellis conducted the services. The pall bearers were Mr. Robert Schmidt, W. A. King, J. M. Johnson, George Allen, W. K. Booth and Tom Ware. A large cottege followed the remains to their last resting place. Mrs. Smith leaves five children—two sons and three daughters—the oldest twelve years of age, and the youngest oldest twelve years of age, and the youngest three years and a half old. Her loss will be deeply deplored by a large circle of friends and acquaintances.

Rev. John A. Reynolds, of the North Georgia Methodist Episcopal conference, was in the city sesterday. He is now stationed at Tallapoosa. Mr. Reynolds is an old typo, a brother of Mr. T. S. Reynolds, and in 1859 and 1860 was foreman of the Temperance Crusade printing office in this city. Mr. Reynolds expressed himself as highly pleased w h the rapid strides made by Atlanta. "ex to Tallapoosa," said he, "Atlanta is the g.e. testeity in the state. Do you know that Tallapoosa is the only city I was ever in that I was bigger than it was? Fact! There ain't room enough in it to hold me. I can't rent a room there, for every available room is rented. Oh, we're booming."

"Do you know," said Mr. R. G. Thompson, to a representative of The Constitution yesterday, "that I am wholly unnerved today. The intelligence of the death of Mr. W. G. Walker at Rome, has depressed me as much as if he had been a brother." In accounting for this effect upon him Mr. Thompson said: "Mr. Walker and I had been intimate friends for over twenty years. He taught school at Stone Mountain, Edgewood, East Point and other places near Atlanta for years, and was highly successful as a teacher." He had been teaching in Rome, but last year his wife died, and in October he was sent to bed by the severe attack of general debility which culminated in his death. He was buried today in Cassville by the side of his wife. He leaves only two sisters in Pennsylvania. His loss will be regretted by a legion of friends in this city."

"GRETCHEN" LAST NIGHT.

First Performance of the James-Wainwright Engagement.

First Performance of the James-Wainwright Engagement.

Mr. Louic James and his lovely wife, who is to the theater-going public still Miss Marie Wainwright, need not be introduced to Atlanta people, as most capable exporients of historic art, everybody knows them as such. There are no stars upon the American stage who have a stronger claim upon the admiration and the love of the pcople, and this is as it should be, Mr. James has been called "themost versatile actor in America," and his claim to that title will hardly be disputed. And he combines great ability with versatility. Indeed it is ability which gives versatility. Miss Wainwright is beautiful, charming, taleuted—in many respects the foremost American actress.

They were seen at Decive's last night in Mr. W.
S. Gilbert's "Gretchen." The leading idea of this play, as explained upon the play-bill, was suggested by Gotche's "Faust." In it the author has given full scope to that satire which is seen in a greater or less extent in "Pinafore," "Patlence," "Bab's Ballads," and everything he writes. The play is brilliant throughout, but the story is a sad one, and in this respect is somewhat disappointing.

Miss Wainwright's Gretchen is a triumple of true art. Nothing could be more beautiful than her portrayal of the growth of the maiden's love, uretchen has been described as a study in emotions, and the description is a good one, for it is the Marguerite of Goethe, the most beautiful character ever drawn by poet. Miss Wainwright has the beauty and grace which make it possible for her to look Gretchen, and the dramatic ability to portraythe character as the author intended—and that means to make it the embodiment of purity and loveliness of character. This is a role which gives her excellent opportunities to display her great talent, and she embraces the opportunity. The culmination of the last act is a superb plece of acting.

Mr. James & Mephisto, the second character of the play, fully comes up to the lifty handard of that culmination of the last act is a superb piece of acting.

Mr James's Maphisto, the second character of the play, fully comes up to the lifty standard of that exc lient actor's best creations. He is a most entertaining devil—jolly, good-natured, full of sarcasm and humor—ene of those devils whom people like to have about. The part is one which would amount to nothing in the hands of other than an intellectual actor, but in Mr. James's hands, it undoubtedly becomes one of that gentleman's best roles. In the denunciation of the church, in the first act, he is cloquent and in the garden scene, in the second act, he has an opportunity to display his humor.

The company is a good one. Of the support Mr. Ford Moseley and Miss Kate Week deserve special mention. Mr. Moseley looks handsome as Faustus and plays his part well. Miss Week is excellent as Martha. The play is well mounted and the costumes, especially those of Miss Wainright, are beautiful.

"Gretchen" will be renested at the matinee today. tiful.

"Gretchen" will be repeated at the matinee today. Tonight the company will produce the famous tragedy "Vightius," with Mr. James as Virginius, Miss Wainwright as Virginia, and Mr. Moseley as Iscilius. The press everywhere praises this production of the play which is so closely connected with the name of the late John McCullough.

A SHORT HONEYMOON.

A Bride and Groom Live Together Three Days and Then Separate. A peculiar suit for divorce and alimony was filed yesterday morning in the office of the clerk of the superior court.

Lucy A. Sasseen is the complainant, and her husband, Charlie E. Sasseen, is the re-clerk of the superior court.

Lucy A. Sasseen is the complainant, and her husband, Charlie E. Sasseen, is the respondent.

In the petition it is alleged that the two were united in marriage in the fall of 1887. The wedding took place in Atlanta. It was solemnized in the presence of the usual witnesses, and everything was done in due form, and the connubial knot was tied in the most approved manner. The husband seemed excessively fond of his wife, and for three days they were as happy as cooing doves. The honeymoon, however, was short. The young husband told his wife that he was desirous of getting a home for her, and he said he was about to begin building a house in Atlanta. He advised her to make a visit to her kinsfolk in Newton county and remain there until the house was finished. He promised to push the work forward as rapidly as possible, so that the house would in a few months be ready for her to take possession of it.

The confiding young wife was filled with joy, and readily acquiesced in the plan suggested. She went to Newton and stayed with her relatives. Her visit was extended much longer than she intended when she left Atlanta. She did not hear from her husband for a long time, so she resolved to come to Atlanta and see what had become of him. She came back to the city and began making inquiries of her missing partner. Finally, she found him. To her astonishment and mortification, he refused to recognize her as his wife. He treated her with contumely, and swore he would have no association with her. She was broked hearted, and her sorrow was painful to behold. She pleaded with Sasseen to remember the vows he had spoken at the altar. He was obdurate. He said: "I was under age when the wedding took place. I never intended to keep you as my wife."

The petitioner says she is in straitened circumstances, and needs her husband's support. She asks the court to compel him to support her.

KILLED BY A BRIDGE.

An East Tennessee Train Hand's Sudden Death.

MISSED FROM THE TRAIN IN THE DARK

M. Moseley Riding on the Top a Box Car is Knocked Off and Instantly Killed.

Tenuresce road, was killed yesterday morning about four o'clock one mile north of Holton, and his remains reached Atlanta about noon. eley had been working on the road only short time.

Some three months ago a young beardless fellow left his home near Indian Pound, a small villagoetoed beside the Georgia railroad, and started out to seek work. He was a young man of good address; and soon found himself on the East Tennessee railroad pay roll. He was assigned to a freight train on the road, and soon demonstrated his ability as a railroad nmn. On Monday he left Atlanta on a south-bound train, and reached the other end of the road in good shape. On Thursday he started on the return trip, and durstarted on the return trip, and during the night did his work in good shape. Just before daylight the train left Macon, and Moseley was at his post. When the train stopped at Flovilla, the conductor discovered that Moseley was not with it. An inquiry revealed the fact that he was seen on the train just before it reached Holton, but no account of him could be obtained after that time. Meni scare sent back, and beside the track near Helton, the trainhand was found. He was dead, track near Holton, the trainhand was found.

He was dead.

The men who were sent back, placed the dead hand upon a litter made of a car doer, and carried him to the train, upon which he was placed. His head was teribly crushed and battered, and the blood and brains scattered over his clothing. The conductor knew that the man had been struck by a bridge which spans the road near Holton, and killed. His remains were sent down the Geergia road to his home, accompanied by friends.

STRUCK WITH STONES.

A Row in Happy Hollow, in Which Two

Happy Hollow is out on Peters street, near its junction with Walker. Once it was famous in police circles, but for four or five years past no returns have come in from that section until last night. Soon after dark, however, the 'phone at police headquarters opened and some one at Middlebrooks's store called out:

"Send the 'right to Leonard street, on Peters, which."

The patrolman is a good taker, and nere is his story:

It appears that Dawson Blair. Will Stegall and Charley Presnall, three young white men, became engaged in a row with a negro man. In the row Blair and Presnall opposed each other, and a stubborn fight ensued. In the fight stones were hurled about generally and promiseuously, and two or three parties were hurt. Blair was hit on the head with a stone, an ugly scalp wound being the result. Stegall was out behind the ear with a stone and the skull was fractured. A stray stone struck a small negro boy named Nash, hurting him severely. The wounds were all dressed at Dr. Curtis's drug store and the matter will be carefully investigated by Judge Anderson during the session of police court this morning.

HE HAS COME BACK.

HE HAS COME BACK.

J. J. Kress, Once Train Master on the East Tennessee, Goes Through the West.

J. J. Kress, well known in railroad circles throughout the country, has just returned from an extended trip through Texas and the Mexicos. Mr. Kress was for a long time connected with the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad, and made many friends in Atlanta. For the past six months he has been out of railroad business. On account of health he left the work which he had followed for years and engaged in mercantile business. He soon became satisfied that railroading was his fort, however, and retired from the store. Since then he has had several fine offers, some from western reads—the Southstore. Since then he has had several fine offers, some from western roads—the Southern Pacific, the Gulf Colorado and Santa Fe and the Cheasapeake and Ohio. These offers induced Mr. Kress to go west, but during his absence the East Tennessee made him an offer and he came hence. Mr. Kress has not yet accepted any of the flattering offers and will a not until he can look over the field.

WOULD-BE TEACHERS.

Examination of Colored Applicants by the County School Commissioner. Colored women, applicants for positions a hool teachers, filled the hall of the house representatives yesterday.

Under the new law, the state school commissioner issued an order requiring the examination of applicants to be licensed to teach school to be uniform throughout the state. Under the provisions of this order, Mr. John N. Fain, county school commissioner of Fulton county, examined the applicants for license to teach in Fulton county several days ago.

ilicense to teach in Fulton county several days ago.

In attendance at the several colored educational institutions are many male and female pupils, who expect to teach during the three months vacation. As it would subject them to great expense and inconvenience to require them to go before the county school poards of their respective counties for examination, it was agreed that the examination should be made by the county school commission of Fulton county. As there were over 200 applicants, the hali of the house of representatives had to be selected, and the work of examination was divided into two days. Yesterday 153 female applicants, from Atlanta university and Spelman seminary were examined. The questions in grammar and geography and other studies were prepared by State School Commissiener Hook, and each applicant signed a solemn agreement not to divulge any one of the questions until after the decision of the board was made. Judge Adam S. Pool, of the county board of education, assisted Judge Fain. The applicants were out answers to the questions, signed their name and school on the papers, and re-tion, assisted Judge Fain. The applicants wrote out answers to the questions, signed their name and school on the papers, and returned them to the commissioner, who will have them criticised and laid before the country board for decision.

Today over one hundred and fifty male students of Clarke university, and other institutions of learning, will be examined according to the same plan. It will be sometime before a verdict is reached.

COLORED MEN MEET . At Macon and Form a State Agricultural Society.

Smith W. Easley, Jr., of this city, returned from Macon yesterday morning.

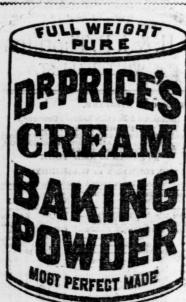

He says that a meeting held in Macon, pesterday, of fully 800 colored men from all parts of the state, a state agricultural society was organized under flattering auspices. Lectured Crawford, the representative from McIntosh county in the last house, was elected president; Smith W. Easley, Jr., secretary; and Rev. W. J. Gaines, treasurer. The last two reside in Atlanta. One vice-president from each congressional district was elected.

The time and place of holding the annual gressional district was elected.

The time and place of holding the annual fairs will be selected by the executive committee. The secretary will proceed at once to organize agricultural clubs in each county, and is a strong advocate for selecting Atlanta as the place for holding the annual fairs. He thinks the outlook good for a strong organization.

Old Teb was a grizzled, wiry hunter of the Blue Ridge mountains, whose long rifle and coon skin pouch were better known in the wilds of Buncombe county in those days that the features of far more celebrated men. His cabin was a mere shell of half decayed logs with a dirt floor and its roof held down b stones and poles. In summer it was airy wet, in winter smoky and cold. Dried venise hung from the grimy joists; lean hounds slep in the ashes of the fireplace, and on the out walls the skins of foxes, coons and ground hogs were stretched out to dry in ordered

"Pa'nter's nowadays is erbout ez skaze e hens teeth," he continued, "but that that va mint war my fus' one, tho' I've knocked ove a many a one sence."

So Teb repeated the oft told tale that hun ers delight in, and without following his pec liar idiom, we will relate the substance of harrative in our own words.

Several years before his marriage, he ha lived in this same cabin with his mother as sister. One bitter winter's night he and haster. One bitter winter's night he and haster and Mag, some two years his junior. It had been a bad winter. There was "mast" in the woods and wild animals, as was tame, were famishing. Bear had been sedown in the caves, and the melanche howl of the wolves had been hea at night far from their usual haunts. It waid that a large panther had caught a yearliclose by "old man Ferry's" cowpen, and mawere the injunctions laid on Teb and Mag their mother as to remaining in after dark.

So that night they brought in the yell "cur dog" for company, barred the door, but a rousing fire of oak and pine knots, and fulle cozy, despite the cold draughts pour in through the half chinked logs, or the swhistle of the night-wind down the gor where "Yaller creek" moaned and toiled on course down to the river below. But, as fire died, they went to bed to keep warm; a Teb was just dropping into a doze when heard the house cat mewing to be let in.
